DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 1-8 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventors, at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The newly presented limitations "one-piece" housing, "rigid material" and "permanently sealed" are considered to be new matter and must be canceled from the claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 10/27/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The Applicant contends that the original specification provides support for the limitations listed supra. Specifically, the Applicant contends that the "one-piece" housing limitation is supported by the term "single tube sealed container" used throughout the specification and supported by the verbiage on page 4 which describes the housing as having the shape of an elongated cylinder, however, neither of these limitations provide support for the newly claimed limitation "one-piece" housing, i.e., a "single tube sealed container" and a "cylinder" can be formed from several pieces which are then assembled (for example, two halves of a tube can be joined to form a single cylindrical tube wherein such a tube is not considered to be made from "one piece"). The Applicant further contends that since the housing can be broken, it must be made from a rigid material, however, the fact that the housing can be broken, does not provide support for the newly claimed term "rigid", i.e., a flexible or semi-flexible structure can be broken wherein such a structure may not be considered "rigid" (since the Applicant has not defined the term "rigid" in the specification, it cannot be determined as to what limitation this term lends to the claims. Lastly, the Applicant contends that the term "sealed" provides support for the newly presented limitation "permanently sealed", however, since an enclosure can be sealed without being "permanently sealed" (i.e., a bottle of water is sealed via the cap, but not "permanently sealed" in that the cap can be removed), the term "sealed" does not provide support for the new limitation "permanently sealed).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
